Nothing Heard From the Russian

Dardanelles Redoubled Today
By English Force.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Nov. 1.—The British troops in the Balkans, whose movements have been kept secret since they poured into Saloniki, prepared to rush through Greece to the assistance of Serbia, are now in the trenches with their Balkan allies at grips with Bulgarian forces.

Through all reports that the allies have taken this town, apparently unfounded, it is along this lower stretch of the front that the Bulgarians are likely to receive the first hard blows from their opponents.

Rear Guard Battles.
From the Turkish north the Danube, the Bulgarian offensive has made such progress that it seems to be out of the question for the Serbians to do much more than fight rear guard actions for the present.

In northeastern Serbia, the Bulgarians, well across the Timok river, are pressing forward vigorously in order to widen the line of communications with Hungary, up the Danube river.

The much discussed Russian expedition which is reported to be on the way to the Bulgarian coast, now estimated at 200,000 men, have not been heard from again. There are recurrent reports, however, of further bombardment of Bulgarian ports.

This may mean that further artillery preparation is necessary before the Russians attempt to get a foothold on the coast.

At Dardanelles.
The British are showing renewed activity. They are hammering the Turks with artillery, supported with such ships of the allied fleet as are not engaged against Bulgaria.

Fighting Severe.
Rome, Nov. 1.—The fighting between Serbians and Bulgarians in the Timok valley has been desperate. A Bulgarian dispatch to a Milan newspaper, says the third Bulgarian regiment of infantry was almost destroyed, only fifty men surviving. Public buildings and barracks at Vidin, Bulgaria, are filled with wounded men. This paper also states that 20,000 Serbians have taken refuge in Roumania.

German Report.
Berlin, Nov. 1.—Bulgarian artillery that has advanced from Kniazevac and Pirov, have begun a bombardment of the exterior forts of Nish, according to a dispatch from Sofia given out today by the Overseas News agency.

Bulgarians Retired.
Saloniki, Nov. 1.—Bulgarian infantry supported by two batteries, made an attack yesterday on a French advance post covering Krivolak, on the left bank of the Vardar. After sharp fighting, the Bulgarians retired, having sustained heavy losses.

Passenger Ship.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Nov. 1.—The state department today announced that it had granted permission for German auxiliary cruiser Cron Prinz Wilhelm, now interned at Norfolk, to be restored to the proper conditions as a passenger liner. The vessel will remain interned until the end of the war. The crew will be transferred to the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, also at the Norfolk navy yards and the vessel will be dry docked at Newport News for a thorough overhauling. The request at first was opposed by the neutrality board, but the state department officials held the international law did not prohibit granting it.ENGLISH COMMANDER

Berlin, Nov. 1.—A dispatch from Copenhagen was given out today by the Overseas News agency says Lieutenant Commander Leyton of British submarine E-13 has fled from that city breaking his parole.

Lieutenant Commander Leyton was commanding officer of E-13 which was captured on the Danish island of Saltholm in August. The British admiral reported the E-13 had been attacked while helplessly by two German torpedo boats resulting in the death of four crew members. The remaining members of the crew were interned in Denmark.

UNIVERSITY PASTORS WILL SEEK FUNDS FOR CHURCH

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Nov. 1.—The university pastors and the secretary of the M. C. A. will soon launch a campaign in the state to collect $500,000 for the erection of a great union religious building at the University of Wisconsin. The structure contemplated by them includes an auditorium for common religious gatherings capable of accommodating the whole university body.

George Cullen, Agnes Cullen, Margaret Rooney, James F. Smith and Robert Rooney motored to Whitewater yesterday to attend the funeral of the late Charlie Pommer.

WILL THIS ANCIENT BATTLE GROUND OF HISTORY
BE THE SCENE OF ANOTHER EPOCH MAKING BATTLE?

If the plans of the Germans to march through Bulgaria, Turkey, Asia Minor and Palestine, to attack the Suez canal are carried out, the plain of Armageddon, the biblical battle ground, may be the scene of another great conflict. It is even probable that the line of march of Alexander the Great to Egypt will be followed part of the way by the Germans, the latter using, of course, the Baghdad railway from Constantinople to Palestine instead of the winding route Alexander took. For the Germans the conquest of the Suez canal would give them a tremendous advantage over what they

Chicago, Nov. 1.—The arrest of Captain George Wellington Streeter, self-styled owner of a strip of land he calls the district of Lake Michigan, was considered by police today on a new charge of violating the Sunday closing law.

Streeterville, as the land is known, was the only openly wet spot located in Chicago yesterday. It is located within a stone's throw of Lake Shore Drive, a fashionable residence section. He has claimed ownership to the property on squatter's rights. He maintained that the police have no authority on the property and that it is under federal jurisdiction.

Crowds swarmed the small brick structure. Streeter erected on the property and which he converted into a drinking place. It was reported that those who found their way to the "oasis" numbered at least two thousand.

War Vessels.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Nov. 1.—Graphic descriptions of the first visit of British newspapermen to the British grand fleet are published in all morning papers.

A naval officer aboard one of the ships told the correspondents that in addition to the war fleet proper there are between two thousand and three thousand ships of merchant marine employed in transport and supply duty and many more engaged in patrol duty in the waters of the British empire.

The visitors were shown the celebrated map on which are marked places where German submarines have been captured, destroyed or sunk, and various methods of meeting the submarine menace were explained to them.

"We actually saw vessels engaged in this anti-submarine business," leaving the first one of British newspapermen to the proper and that it is under federal jurisdiction.

Indeed, it is not necessary to go outside the harbor to understand why the blockade has failed. Here at anchor alongside one another, lay the Dane and Antidote."

Berlin, via London, Nov. 1.—Emperor William has awarded the Iron Cross to the first class to Crown Prince George of Saxony on recommendation of commander-in-chief, in recognition of service rendered in the late battles.

Prince George, who is 22 years old, was wounded seriously in the leg on the battlefield in France a year ago, and at the time it was thought he would be able to take no further part in the campaign. In September of last year he was decorated with the Iron Cross in a lesser degree.

Lima, Peru, Nov. 1.—The promulgation of a measure to reform the constitution, will be proposed in the senate this week, it is reliably reported. The prime minister, it is declared, will submit his resignation if the measure is carried. A measure granting religious freedom, which was only passed by both houses of the Peruvian parliament. Special dispatches from Lima last week stated that there was much opposition to the adoption of this constitutional change which requires the authorization of the two congresses, the measure having first been passed two years ago. Peru recently emerged from a period of revolution, and it is possible that further constitutional changes are now under consideration.RELIGIOUS PAPERS

Texas, When Anti-Catholic Papers Were in Evidence.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Houston, Tex., Nov. 1.—After jury-men had testified to seeing copies of an anti-Catholic newspaper in the jury room, a new trial was ordered today at Marshall in the case of Mrs. Bennett and Stockdale who was wealthy, were close friends in the hospital. The former entered the room of the later on Saturday night and grasping a chair beat the older man. Attendants aroused by the screams of the victim were unable to overcome the demon strength of Bennett in his insanity and it was until six men arrived that the chair was wrenched from his grasp. Stockdale died a few moments later, his skull being fractured by the blows from the chair.

An hour later Bennett was normal. Today, word from Chicago says, he still refuses to believe that he killed Stockdale. He is now being kept in a straight jacket.

ADMIRAL IN DENIALNaval Officers Sit as Court in Hearing Evidence in Court Martial
Trial Today.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Boston, Mass., Nov. 1.—Rear Admiral Wm. M. Little refused today to be guilty before a naval court martial today to charges of neglect and careless methods, while on duty as inspector during the construction of submarine K-2 at the Fore River Ship Building Company's yards at Quincy, two years ago.

Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske was president of the court martial and Lieutenant Commander Johnson, as judge advocate, opened the proceedings by reading a list of charges.

Lieutenant Radford Moses, the first witness, stated that he was one of the inspection officers at Fore River, during the building of the K-2 and subsequently was her commanding officer. He said he called attention of Lieutenant Childs, another inspection officer at the yard, to certain defects in the battery cells. The witness, he said, ran low after each discharge, and he found lead drops in thirteen of the seventeen cells he examined.

Commander Little, counsel for Rear Admiral Little, raised the point that the condition of shells did not constitute a defect in workmanship on the submarine, but was due to construction by their makers, a New York firm, which he said has been required by specifications to furnish them. The court went into executive session to discuss the point.

Beloit, Nov. 1.—Oliver Bennett, age 37 years, the son of Wilson Bennett, a farmer living seven miles southeast of Beloit in Manchester, an inmate of the Garfield park Chicago hospital killed John Stockdale, aged 65, a fellow inmate, in the institution Saturday night. The act was done while Bennett was in a temporary insanity. A short while after the deed he regained normal conditions and refused to believe the house physicians when they told him he had murdered the man.

Bennett has been an inmate in the hospital for several months. He was a sufferer from pyromania, an insane impulse to destroy by fire. While at home it was necessary to lock him in his room nightly. Several times he escaped and set fire to objects and the dwelling house.

Bennett and Stockdale who was wealthy, were close friends in the hospital. The former entered the room of the later on Saturday night and grasping a chair beat the older man. Attendants aroused by the screams of the victim were unable to overcome the demon strength of Bennett in his insanity and it was until six men arrived that the chair was wrenched from his grasp. LARGE BLACK EAGLE
KILLED BY FARMER BOY

Grand Rapids, Wis., Nov. 1.—Gerald Crotteau, a farmer boy living north of here, succeeded in killing a large black eagle, measuring seven feet, six inches from one wing to the other. The boy saw the bird in the barnyard and went to kill it, when it started for him as if to make an attack. He raised his gun and fired, succeeding in wounding the eagle and bringing it to earth.

NO FIRE ESCAPES IN SIGHT ON SCHOOL WHERE 21 DIED IN FIRE

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Up to noon today 3400 school children were in the school where 21 died in a fire last Thursday. The same period last year there were 3,279 applications.

This was the last day for the receipt of applications. Many more were expected this afternoon.

There were no fire escapes on St. John's Parochial School at Peabody, Mass., where twenty-one school children were burned to death last Thursday. However, the authorities place no blame on anyone and no arrests will be made.

ment is Rejected.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Peking, Nov. 1.—The Chinese government today rejected the proposals of Japan, Great Britain and Russia, for postponement of the decision whether a monarchical form of government is to be re-established.

The decision of the Chinese government was made known by Tsau Yulin, vice-minister of foreign affairs. He called at the British, Russian and Japanese legations and informed the ministers the Chinese government had been advised by provincial officials that they would be able to maintain tranquility during the re-establishment of the monarchy.

Tsau Yulin thanked the powers for their friendly interest in the welfare of China. He said the decision concerning a change in the form of government, was wholly in the hands of the people, and that, therefore, it would be impossible to adopt the suggestion for postponement.

The vice-minister's communication was verbal, as were the representations of the three powers.

Washington, Nov. 1.—A series of severe earth shocks were recorded by Georgetown University's seismograph here today which lasted about three hours. The first shock was felt at 2:49 a. m. The main phase of the shock was felt at 3:24 o'clock, the tremors dying away at 5:21. The disturbance is roughly estimated to have been about 4,000 miles from Washington.

The records indicated that the earthquake was an exceptionally severe one. Rev. Francis J. Tendoff, the seismological observer, said the shock must have been disastrous, judging from the indication on the peculiar records. He thought it was centered in northeastern Siberia or Japan where shocks of varying intensity are of almost daily occurrence.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—A verdict of $2,944 obtained by Arthur Hoffman, against the Chicago National League club was confirmed today in the appellate court at Chicago.

Hoffman was with the club under contract of February 23, 1911, which provided for a salary of $5000 a year. On May 29, 1912, he was notified by telegram that he had been transferred to Pittsburgh and that the Pittsburgh club would be responsible for the salary.

The evidence showed that during remainder of the season Hoffman received $697 from the Pittsburgh club, and he did not enter into any contract with it, relying upon the telegram from the Chicago club.

M'ADDO SPEAKS AT MADISON FAVORING
WAR PREPAREDNESSSecretary Gives Address Urging Building of Merchant Marine for Defense and Trade.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Wis., Nov. 1.—Secretary W. G. McAdoo's brief visit to Wisconsin was concluded yesterday afternoon when the official party left Madison for Washington. The secretary spent a day of great activity in the city. Just before he left he conferred with officials here over the location of a new postoffice site.

The feature of Secretary McAdoo's visit here was his address at the university convocation Saturday evening on military preparedness.

Secretary McAdoo urged the creation of a shipping board, consisting of the secretary of the navy and secretary of commerce, members ex-officio and three members to be selected by the president. He said he believed congress should appropriate and put into the hands of this board $500,000 for the building of a naval auxiliary. These, he asserted, should be merchant ships of a new design, to be used in times of peace in furthering our trade relations with foreign countries. He declared that these vessels should be built as quickly as possible and by their use the United States will increase its share of the world's trade. He deplored the fact that practically all our trade in the past has been carried in foreign bottoms.

"We are paying to foreign steamship lines more than $300,000,000 per year, when by having our own ships we could pay them for this service, build up a merchant marine which will profit our people in time of peace and serve our country in time of war," declared Secretary McAdoo.

The secretary pointed out that this scheme would be opposed by some because of the fact that this merchant marine-naval auxiliary would be in competition with private enterprises. Some would call it socialism, he said, when he declared that the parcel post and the postal savings bank had both been dubbed socialism and he had come to believe that when special interests charge that a plan is socialistic, the probability is that it is a good one in the interest of the people.

Beloit, Nov. 1.—Local colored men engaged in a brawl Saturday night and as a result Robert Lowery of Rockford in the chest was recovered from a severed artery near the heart and Dick Washington in the city lockup charged with the crime. Lowery happened to drop into the home of Mrs. James Smith, a colored man, when they were outside. The players left and Lowery and a friend named Louis Beauchamp followed. Beauchamp, evidently peeved at the interruption of the game, struck Lowery with a small knife made from a razor blade and with the exclamation, "You dirty dog, you son of a bitch, I'll get you," and lunged the knife into Lowery's left breast. The latter ran to the police and was taken to the hospital. Washington was captured. He and his friends thought Lowery a spy sent to tip the gambling off to the police.

Merchant Dies Suddenly.
F. H. Moss, age 67 years, prominent in business circles here and a member of the Chesbrock Moss Grocery company, died suddenly Saturday night at 8 o'clock. A rupture of a blood vessel was the cause of death. Mr. Moss worked until 5 o'clock Saturday evening and sold his last order of groceries to Superintendent of the county poor farm Cash Whipple. The funeral will be Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home on Prairie avenue.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 30.—Miss Helen Angie, who secured a divorce in February, 1911, on grounds of desertion from Frank W. Angie, of this city, was remarried to him here today. Miss Angie some months ago was acquitted on a charge of being responsible for the death of a friend, Waldo Ballou, who fell down a staircase in the building in Sanford, in which were her apartments.

Chicago Magistrate Does No Tax
Costs on Prisoner When He Settles for Board Bill.

It cost Sheriff A. O. Chamberlain about fifty dollars to collect a bill of about fifty dollars and the Chicago court system of law and a writ of habeas corpus is something that the Rock county officials will not take kindly to in the future. About a month ago a man was forced to leave for the apprehension for George H. Connelly, a traveling salesman, for "beating" a bill at the Myers Hotel amounting to eighteen dollars. Signed by Chamberlain, the Chicago and a telegram was sent to the Chicago detectives to arrest him. They did. But that was all the good it did. When that time, Somehow Connelly was released. When he was released, authorities do not know or did they attempt to find out. Again Connelly was "pinched" on the order of Sheriff Chamberlain and this time was held over the Chicago papers. He was to be somewhat of an attorney for he refused to come to Janesville without requisition papers. This meant a trip to Madison and when an officer was released, the papers were signed by Governor Philip to bring Connelly back to Wisconsin, it was found some one had neglected to sign the requisition papers correctly. This means a return trip to Madison to obtain a certified statement to comply with the red tape and another trip to the capital. Finally the papers were made out right and then Sheriff Chamberlain was forced to face the charge. The writ was obtained from Judge Berteno at Chicago and for four days the sheriff was in Chicago paying the costs. Judge Berteno Saturday afternoon, the writ was signed by Connelly was to pay the board bill of eighteen dollars and be discharged. The court held "there was nothing doing on the court costs which are usual in such cases." The prisoner and Attorney Hill managed to slip the total costs on Sheriff Chamberlain. District Attorney Dunham was in Chicago on the case but was not able to get the writ. The authorities at least had the satisfaction of getting the board bill for Charles Wild even if it did cost them three times as much as the bill itself.

MARRIED SATURDAY
AT HOME CEREMONYMiss Louise Merrill Becomes the Bride of John James Shearer.

Will Live in Chicago.
On Saturday afternoon, at four-thirty, Reverend John McKinley, of Christ Episcopal church, read the service which united Miss Louise Merrill and John James Shearer in marriage. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Harry Ernest Merrill, on South Third street, and was a very quiet affair, only the immediate family and a few intimate friends of the happy couple being present. The bride and groom were unattended and immediately following the ceremony a wedding supper was served. The house and tables were tastefully decorated with roses and chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. Shearer left for a short wedding trip to northern Wisconsin and after December 15th will be at home at 5559 Prairie avenue, Chicago. The out-of-town guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Wiggin, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Van Der Boice and Albert Cordis of Chicago and Miss Shearer of Minneapolis.

TELLS OF GREATEST THING IN THE WORLD

LOVE OF GOD AND NEIGHBOR IS VITAL PART OF THE CHRISTIAN LIFE.

DEFINES CHRISTIANITY

Dr. MacLaurin in Address at Baptist Church Discourses on Christianity's Most Important Factor.

"Love is that your neighbor will say, 'If God is anything like you, I want to know Him better.' That is the real thing in this life. That is true Christianity," said Dr. D. D. MacLaurin of Madison Sunday morning in his address at the Baptist church. His text was taken from St. Paul's epistle to the Corinthians and reads, "Love never faileth." The larger part of his discourse was devoted to the one word, "Love," which he designated the greatest thing in the world.

"Love has its part to play on the stage of eternity," he said. "Love is not local, nor transient; it never passes away. It means by which love is most easily described than defined, and that is what the apostle proceeds to do when he gives us fifteen characteristics of love."

"The nearest to a definition that we have is the summing up of all the divine law in the greatest of all commandments, 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself.' It commands a union of the faculties of the human soul with the divine, and then requires that we shall have the same desire of well-being for others that we have for ourselves."

"Love is the main spring in the entire activity of God. Consider His creative activities, how vast and yet how perfect and all-seeing; consider His providential activities, how He guards and cares for a million worlds; and consider His paternal activities, how He looks after the smallest details of His universe. And the motor of it all is love. In fact, the greatest equation in Christianity is this: 'God equals love.'"

"What is real Christianity? It is not being a member of a church, nor an officer, nor a deacon, nor a trustee in a church. It is not a confession of faith; it is not a book of discipline, and it is not a theology of matter how beautifully formulated it may be as to theology. A person may have all these things and be destitute of Christianity. It is something beyond the realm of mind and debate, although real Christianity does involve the mind, as witness some of the most brilliant minds of history. St. Paul, Dante, Savonarola, and Martin Luther of the human soul, hold it against every attack. It is the love of God and of human beings. The love of God must be distinguished from love of doctrine, the reverence of God's word. They hung Quakers in Boston common and drove Roger Williams into the wilderness to die of starvation because of love of doctrine and some deacons in our churches today who would stand in the way of church membership of those whom the pastor has worked hard to gather in, simply because of some technicality of doctrine."

"But the question is often asked, 'How can I love God?' I have heard ministers preach of the love of God, but it is too abstract for me. It is something that I cannot grasp. How can I love some one whom I have never seen? I sometimes think that we as ministers are at fault in not making this plainer. Love is something that is elicited from you, drawn from you, and my Christianity will amount to nothing unless I have love for God and my fellow man."

Dr. MacLaurin then drew a graphic picture of the life of Christ. His early training, showing His devotion to His mother, His life of self-sacrifice and service, the agonies of persecution and crucifixion, His death and resurrection, His revelation to His followers, His heritage of the holy spirit and finally His ascension into heaven. "When I know the life of this man," said Dr. MacLaurin, "when I am acquainted with His wonderful teaching and His absolute devotion to the life of service for others, how can I do else but love Him? And then we have the assurance that those who know Christ know the Father, and it is plain that we can love God."

In conclusion, Dr. MacLaurin must bear toward his neighbor. Dr. MacLaurin declared that that love must be something more than love for humanity as it is often practiced. There are persons who have a love for the African in far off Africa, but have no tolerance or consideration for him at Springfield, Ill. There are persons who love the Chinese in far off China, but spurn and despise the Chinaman who do their laundry. Such persons have love for the degraded and destitute of New York City, but no compassion for the broken down woman on the streets of Janesville.

"It is your neighbor, the person who is nearest to you, that needs your love and consideration," said the speaker. "I would not have you think because I am not, but I would impress you with the fact that it is the person with whom you are in daily contact that should receive your love, and become impressed with your devotion to Christ and Christianity. Don't think that we can come down from Madison to save you of Janesville. It is a matter entirely for yourselves. The real thing in Christianity is to live so that your neighbor will say, 'If God is like him, I want to know God.'"

Dr. MacLaurin spoke at the service last evening, closing a week of religious services at the Baptist church.

OBITUARY

Avie Cannon.

Word has come to Janesville of the death yesterday morning of Avie Cannon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Cannon, 112 West Fortieth street, Minneapolis, Minnesota. Her mother was known here as Madeline Angell. The child was about eight years old. She suffered a stroke of paralysis some months ago and her life was despaired of then. But later she seemed to rally and the family had strong hope of her ultimate recovery, until a recent relapse. She was a patient, gentle sufferer and endeavored herself to her friends by her sweet, winning ways. She is the only child of her parents and her loss is hard to bear. The sympathy of the friends in Janesville will go out to the bereaved parents. Details as to the funeral and burial have not come to hand.

Attention: Elks: Next regular meeting of Janesville lodge No. 254, E. P. O. E., will be held Tuesday evening, Nov. 2nd. A delegation from Rockford will be with us. A buffet lunch will be served. All members are requested to be present.

SIX HUNDRED ATTEND LIBRARY RECEPTION

Big Crowd Features Anniversary Celebration on Saturday Evening and Make Occasion a Success.

Over six hundred patrons and friends of the Janesville Public Library attended Saturday evening the fiftieth anniversary reception held at the library building. There was orchestra music, refreshments, ice cream and cake, and an elaborate exhibit of curios. Mayor James A. Fathens, members of the library board, Miss Mary Egan, librarian and Miss Mary E. Hazelton of the state library commission, composed the reception committee.

The many guests crowded the building, and were in the majority, much interested in the explanations given by the attendants of the exhibits of antiques and curios was most entertaining. Those who loaned the articles for the occasion were: Judge Charles L. Fife, Mrs. Abbie Helms, Commander Francis Bostwick, Dr. B. Buckmaster, Miss Mary E. Hazelton of the high school faculty, Mrs. E. H. Hall, the Sisters of Mercy of St. Joseph's convent, Mrs. F. W. Wendenburg, Mrs. J. H. Buel, Mrs. C. E. Johnson, Mrs. J. H. Buel, Mrs. Dr. King of Geneva, Honorable Dr. M. Whitehead and Charles Bostwick. Members of the library board and Miss Mary Egan, the librarian, extended themselves as highly pleased with the success of the reception. The turnout was gratifying to those who had planned the occasion which is considered a success.

In honor of arranging the reception in the library building, the library, the board of directors, directed their endeavors to demonstrate to the public that the Janesville Public Library is an institution for the benefit and free use of everybody in the city. Their idea was to stimulate interest in the institution and to raise the number of library patrons. Aside from the drawing of books, the library maintained a free reading room with daily newspapers, the popular magazines and other periodicals on file. Library attendants are always courteous and helpful in the matter of information sought by patrons and the public is free to seek information here at any time.

NAME W. C. METCALF EDITOR AT COLLEGE

Graduate of Janesville High School Elected Editor of "Ariel" at Lawrence College.

Winthrop C. Metcalf, son of George A. Metcalf, 308 North Washington street, of this city, was given the greatest honor within the college by his classmates at Lawrence college, Keokuk, when he was elected editor-in-chief of this year's Ariel—the official student year book—recently. Mr. Metcalf was graduated from the Janesville high school in 1914 and received many class honors in the school here.

At Lawrence his college career has been most successful and the election of the Janesville young man as editor of the student's book is indicative of the high respect his fellow students hold of him. He is a member of the Delta Iota fraternity.

PRISONER IS CAUGHT AFTER TEN CHASE; ARRAIGNED IN MILWAUKEE.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 1.—Harry T. Partington, who was arrested by police authorities of the United States, Canada for ten years, was arraigned in District court today for preliminary hearing on charge of wife abandonment.

Ten years ago last April, Partington was arrested on the charge and was released when he signed his own bond. He left Milwaukee and went to Canada. After working there for several years, he went to Alaska. Last spring he returned to the United States and made his home in St. Louis.

During this time Dr. James Donahue, present Milwaukee physician and brother of Mrs. Partington was backing a search for the missing man. Special detectives were hired by the physician. They trailed Partington across the country but were never able to lay hands on him. Two weeks ago, a friend of Dr. Donahue's recognized Partington in St. Louis and notified the police. His arrest followed and he was returned to Milwaukee to stand trial.

SIGN THE ANSWER TO COMPLAINT ON BRIDGE CONTRACT

City Attorney Dougherty Prepares Answer to Complaint of Gould Construction Company.

City Attorney W. H. Dougherty and the city officials today signed the answer prepared by Dougherty to the complaint filed by the Gould Construction company in the circuit court for Rock county over a claim of the company for extra labor for the building of the Milwaukee street concrete bridge. The case is to be tried at the coming term of the circuit court and will probably be put before the jury some time in the latter part of this month.

The amount claimed by the company for extra labor, not specified in the bridge contract, is $33,310.51. In delegalized terms the answer denies that the city plans or specifications moving, or that the construction of the bridge were false, imperfect, misleading or inaccurate or insufficient in any respect. It is denied that the city further expense or damage or loss of time in carrying out the contract, in consequence of any falsity, or imperfection of the plans as prepared by the city engineer. The answer declares that the city has no knowledge of the two stone piers mentioned in the complaint, but the city's plans showed a general contour of the pier bottom at the site of the proposed bridge, and the plans did indicate elevations in Rock river, the points where it was required the Gould company construct new piers.

In the complaint against the city, Thomas S. Nolan, it was said that city knew beforehand of the old piers which the plaintiff alleged caused him unexpected and heavy expense in re-displacement. The claim as presented was disallowed by the city council on the 18th of May, a year ago, and an appeal was taken on the case.

The history of the case shows that the contract for the building of the bridge was signed on July 15, 1913, and the city claims that the construction company was to examine all matters in connection with the building of the bridge before the contract. The contract price of $35,000.00, according to the answer, was to include all work and materials, and everything necessary to erect and complete the bridge, and that no extra charges should be allowed unless ordered by the Board of Public Works.

An extra claim of $3000.00 was allowed by the Board of Public Works in February, 1914 for additional work in removing two masonry piers from the bridge, which was all the claims which the city considered proper and just.

It was brought out by the city in the legal paper that the plans of the bridge were approved by the railroad commission on July 15, 1913, and also by the engineering department of the United States Government. If the city is defeated in the case and the full claim is allowed, it will mean that the Milwaukee street bridge will cost the taxpayers $33,310.51.

MISS CROWLEY WILL WED ON NOVEMBER 24

Miss Ethel Crowley of This City Will Marry William Spohn of Madison.

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Ethel Crowley, 1112 Harrison street, of this city, to William H. Spohn, formerly of Janesville, who is a practicing attorney at Madison, Wis., the ceremony to take place at St. Francis church, on November 24th. Mr. Spohn is a graduate of the Janesville high school and was graduated from the law department of the state university in the class of 1913, achieving many class honors. At present he is associated in his profession with Carl Hill, a prominent Madison attorney.

It is announced that after the wedding ceremony, they will go to Chicago for a short visit and will reside at 339 Fifth street, Madison, after the first of December.

TEACHERS WILL ATTEND CONVENTION

Schools Will Close Thursday and Friday as All Teachers Will Attend Convention at Milwaukee.

On Thursday and Friday of this week, November 4 and 5, all the public schools of the city will be closed so that the teachers may attend the annual state teachers' convention at Milwaukee. Many of the teachers are planning to attend. Some very noted talent has been secured to talk at the different meetings. The first meeting will be held at 10 o'clock and all the teachers who attend the convention will be on the work of the different departments. Some of the different persons who will appear on the programs are as follows:

Dr. J. H. Wilson, on "Evolutionary Schoolhouse a Community Problem."

Ident H. W. Shyrock, Southern Illinois Normal school, on "Education and Peace."

Governor Ferris of Michigan, on "Labor of Boston on Moral Education."

President Stanley J. Kneeland, Philadelphia, on "The Physical Culture of Fear and Worry."

Charles Zuehl, Boston, on "The Joy of the City."

Dr. A. E. Steward, president of Kentucky literary commission, on "The Literary Commission."

Walsh, chairman of the Industrial Relations commission, E. G. Cooley, Commercial club, Chicago, on "The Part Time Continuation Schools."

MISS FLORENCE RICHARDS IS HOSTESS AT PARTY

Miss Florence Richards was hostess Saturday evening at her home at 1212½ ton avenue at a Halloween party to a number of her friends. The evening was spent pleasantly at games and refreshments. Those present were: Misses Bernice Drake, Mable Horn, Bernice Balesley, Myrtle Honeysell, Florence Eller, Dorothy Eller, and Hazel Curry, and Henry Lawrence, Clarence Larson, Arthur J. Tracey, Frank Wilson, Lawrence Balesley and Nelson Horn.

SHE DON'T HAVE TO WEAR HER TEETH IN POCKET ANY MORE

Mrs. H. of Whitewater, lost all her teeth from pyorrhea and her mouth continued so sore that she could only eat the softest food. She had four sets of teeth which she wore in her pocket most of the time. She had been under treatment for years, but was unable to get any relief. She was advised by dentists and doctors, all failures. A lady in Janesville and Mr. Polio, relatives, recommended her to try Dr. A. E. Burrus, which she did. In four days her mouth was healed and she has a fine set of teeth that she uses with the greatest comfort and her health is rapidly improving. He has three other difficult cases from White water and was successful with all of them. Dr. A. E. Burrus, corner of Court & River Sts., Janesville, Wis.

CHANGES IN RULES EFFECT FOOTBALL SCORES IN GENERAL

Radical Alteration of Gridiron Rules Places Smaller 'Varsities On Level With Bigger Teams.

New York, Nov. 1.—The present football season offers a remarkable example of the all-round improvement made by the average college eleven in playing strength and gridiron strategy. A decade ago it was an extraordinary event when the minor 'varsity' team scored upon its big university rival. Today the eleven which can show a clean slate at the season's halfway mark is a rarity. The radical changes made in the rules during the past few years is reasonable, to some extent, for this increase in scoring power, but the fact remains that the smaller college combination is no longer unfamiliar with the full possibilities of football.

In a list of more than one hundred institutions less than a dozen have gone through the season to date without being scored upon and when this number is restricted to those colleges which year in and year out make a high class and consistent football show, the number can be counted upon the fingers of one hand. In the east and middle west all but three have met opponents capable of crossing their goal line or goal bar. The select trio with clean slates is composed of Vanderbilt, Colgate and Washington and Lee. Wisconsin and Syracuse have escaped with but one field goal registered against them, previous to Saturday, but the others are far from being so fortunate.

Among the eleven which have tasted the bitterness of defeat are Yale, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Dartmouth, Virginia, Army, Navy, Brown, Syracuse and Rutgers. A peculiar angle of the situation is that the group of undefeated teams includes many representing colleges which were seldom heard from in the past few years ago. Among these same teams will be found the conquerors of the big 'varsity' eleven, which until recently ran rough-shod over the little fellows in the so-called practice games, preliminary to the season contests.

A careful study of the records of ten years ago will show that at this period of the season the leading university teams of the east and middle west, as a rule, were unscathed upon and had run up totals that ranged all the way from one hundred to two hundred points. At the mid-season mark of 1905 Pennsylvania and Cornell were the only big eleven which had not been scored upon. Five years later the progress of the minor college team was shown by occasional scoring

YALE CAPTAIN HAS CLASH WITH HINKEY

Wilson Virtually Dismisses Head Coach and Sends Call to Shevlin to Come to Eli's Aid.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 1.—The storm which has been gathering over the Yale football camp for several weeks following the poor showing of the Eli eleven in the last few games, at last left the situation in an uncertain condition. While neither Head Coach Frank Hinkey nor Captain Alexander D. Wilson could be reached, it is learned that the Yale captain has taken affairs into his own hands, virtually dismissing the head coach, and telegraphed ex-Captain Tom Shevlin, at Minneapolis, urging the former all-American end to come here at once and assume full charge. It is reported that Shevlin has accepted the call and will be here Tuesday.

Says Hinkey Will Remain. Captain Talbot of last year's eleven, one of the line coaches this year, said tonight that he had heard of Wilson's reported action, but declared Hinkey would remain as head coach. Hinkey's three year contract has another year to run. It is an open secret that the Yale captain and head coach have had frequent clashes in the last few weeks, and that the team, as a result, has been demoralized.

Assistant Coach Talbot tonight said a number of former well known Yale players would be here this week to help in the coaching. Among them will be former Head Coach Howard Jones, 1908; John Kilpatrick, 1911; 'Ted' Lilley, 1911; Guy Hutchinson, 1909, and Larius Bieskov, 1908.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 1.—Tom L. Shevlin, Minneapolis millionaire lumberman and former star football player at Yale, left here last night for the east, presumably at the call sent out by Yale alumni to assist in the reorganization of the coaching staff. Shevlin is mentioned as choice for head coach. For several years he has gone out to assist in coaching at the Eli.

Nothing ever gets away from John Evers. Having been blamed for his tactics toward the National league umpires, he seems to have justified his conduct by the following: "The continued appointment of Bill Klem to officiate in the world series games is a sad commentary on the rest of the National league umpires. If they are good enough to officiate in the regular season why shouldn't they be good enough for the big series?"

While it is true that Klem has officiated in every world series, the players of the opposing teams are naturally in favor of such a method for the reason that they consider Klem the best umpire in the business. It would not be a bad move to allow Klem and Evans to alternate behind the bat and on the bases in every world series and let the rest of the umpires attend to the important work of remaining in the outfield.

DOPE BUCKET KICKED OVER ON GRIDIRON

Football Scores Made Saturday Were Not Anticipated in Many Quar- ters—Chicago Beats B—

While Chicago really seemed to have the advantage from the dopsters' sheet for the Big Nine conference title, by its defeat of Wisconsin Saturday by one point, just a goal, and the six to six tie game which the Gophers played with the 'Suckers' at Champaign, still the battle is not over in the middle west by a good deal.

Just supposing that the Illini team takes a brace and defeats Chicago, that Wisconsin defeats Minnesota and Illinois then when is Chicago to have any chance to win the Big Nine? It is a possibility you know, although not a probability. However, Chicago thus far looks the best, but there are other games to be played before the conference title is finally decided and the result is yet in doubt.

The defeat of the Michigan Aggies by the Oregon Aggies came as one of the big surprises of the day. Aside from the fact that the Oregon Aggies have had a championship team in the past few years. On the Pacific coast they took a long trip east to humble the pride of the east that trimmed 'Hurry up Yoss' and his Michigan machine a week ago.

The fact Michigan travelled out of its way some years ago to become a member of the Big Nine and then to lose to the Oregon Aggies, makes it a defeat Saturday by Syracuse no four hard quarters for the team to swallow.

Taking a trip east Yale lost to Colgate by a score of fifteen to nothing. Some way Yale has not yet been able to develop any sort of a team and it has had a run of bad luck from smaller colleges, teams, but no means weak sisters, in the football firmament, since the season began. Penn State had been touted to defeat Harvard but some way they fell down and Johnny Harvard's players walked over the haughty Penn State boys thirteen to nothing.

Princeton was the only eastern college to make a good showing and took Williams into camp by a neat score of 27 to 0. Princeton is really the strongest of the big eastern teams this season and that is not saying very much. Of course La Fayette took a crack at its old enemy, Pennsylvania Varsity, defeating them seventeen to nothing. Everyone is taking it out for poor old Penn this year. Cornell played Virginia for the first time to nothing and is the real champion team of the east.

Both the Army and Navy teams this year are woefully weak and the Army took a thrashing from Villa Nova sixteen to thirteen and the North Carolina Aggies defeated the Navy fourteen to twelve. In neither east or west is the dope sheet writer making any word of the displays of skill in picking out the winners. In fact it looks as though all dope is going to be upset this year.

Wisconsin really should have won Saturday's game, but for costly fumbles and bad judgment. Minnesota ought to have defeated Illinois if they had not been over-confident and Illinois had not developed unexpected strength, so the you are.

Wisconsin lost its game because of over confidence and playing at times like a lot of amateurs and because why old Dr. Stags always has a trick play in his sleeve. It was spring at the eleventh hour on the Redlegs. One point is one point but it tells the tale. Minnesota lost because it lacked the punch in its offensive play. Illinois held them to a tie score because they played football every minute and lost no chances of doing just the right thing at the right time. It will take other games to decide this championship question but at the present time Minnesota may have a bit the best of it, although Chicago is to be reckoned with if Illinois can be put out of the way and Wisconsin can be trimmed by the Sucker team in their next game. Just a tip.

BOTH TEAMS MEET DEFEAT AT BELOIT

High School Football Team Loses Another Game to B. H. S. 23 to 0—Second Team Loss Also.

Outweighed fifteen pounds to the men the Janesville high school football eleven lost another game to the Beloit high school squad last Saturday afternoon at Beloit by a score of 23 to 0. The locals all through the game were unable to stop the rushes of the Beloit backfield and after about fifteen minutes of play they scored their first touchdown and kicked the goal.

In the third quarter Wooton made a pretty drop kick from the thirty-seven yard line.

The game opened and Beloit kicked off to Janesville and Lee received. The first ten yards were made and then Janesville was forced to punt. Beloit received and advanced the ball down the field five and ten yards at a time and scored on the evening of November 16th. This is one of the functions that is largely attended and doubtless this year will be no exception.

Mrs. Ole O. Ness died at her home in the village on Friday evening after a few hours' illness. Her death comes as a surprise to all as she had been in her usual health until the day of her death. She was one of the early settlers, having settled in the town of Spring Valley more than a half century ago. She is survived by one son, H. O. Ness, with whom she lived.

The boys' ball club played a picked Beloit scored a goal by a drop kick and later made another touchdown and the game ended in a 23 to 0 victory to their favor. Janesville played a very scrappy game and after the game Beloit admitted that they had to work hard for all they got. There was a very large number of people at the game, about a hundred and fifty of them being from Janesville. The line-ups for the two teams are as follows:

J. H. S.	B. H. S.
Richards	fb. Schlenker
Cronin	fb. Whitte
Kober	qb. McCarthy
McClough	lg. Christensen
Kakuska	rg. Traut
McLay	lt. Wells

Viney	le. Mead
Mooney	le. Beimer

Subs for J. H. S.—Hunt, Ford, Kenning.

Subs for B. H. S.—Green Moss, Referee—Carter, Madison; Umpire, Simpson; Head linesman, Ed. Gharity.

First Game. The second team played their first game of the season before the other game against the second team from the Beloit high school and lost by a score of 22 to 0. The scrubs played fairly well, it being the first time they had played together, and did well to hold the score down as low as it was. Beloit's second team was very fast and heavy. They scored three touchdowns and one drop kick. Kenning made the most gains for the local eleven while Waite, Slaker and Welch did some very consistent playing. Having a second team is a very good plan to follow up as it develops some good material for next year's first team. The line-ups for the game Saturday were as follows:

J. H. S. Seconds	B. H. S. Seconds
Waite	lg. Schapel
Welch	fb. M. Garrity
Kenning	rb. Anderson
McDermott	qb. B. Gayton
Falkner	le. Snyder

RED SOX DEFEATED BY BLUES 12 TO 11

After Record Winning Streak, Sox With Crippled Line-up, Defeat- ed Sunday Afternoon.

Alibis in profusion are offered by the Janesville Red Sox for their first defeat administered Sunday afternoon, when the Blue Sox broke the Redlegs' winning streak. In a wild scoring tilt by the score of 12 to 11, the first part of Kakuska, star heavier for the Red Sox, received an injury during high school football practice that kept him off the slab. Spohn, Sox catcher, and Berger were also not in the game.

But the Sox won, for they pounded Hoveland hard and the three base drive by Flynn, shortstop, helped in lowering the Red Sox colors, after nineteen victories. Byrne pitched for the winners, with Hall catching. The line-ups were as follows:

Red Sox	Blue Sox
Byrne	p. Hoveland, Viney
Flynn	c. Jackson
Hartnett	ss. Roherty
Flemming	2b. Miller
Brummond	3b. Marshall
Elick	1b. Dapp

Orfordville News

Orfordville, Oct. 30.—John Beck was a morning passenger to Janesville on Saturday.

The Epworth League gave a Halloween social at the church parlors on Saturday evening. The usual stunts were indulged in, which caused much merriment. There was a good attendance and an excellent time is reported.

Mrs. J. P. Smiley returned on Saturday morning from Fort Atkinson, where she had been in attendance upon the district meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society as a delegate from the local society.

Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Wells are enjoying company from Madison. Their guests are the doctor's mother and sister.

The Ladies' Cemetery association are planning for their annual chicken pie supper, which will be held at the opera house on the evening of November 16th. This is one of the functions that is largely attended and doubtless this year will be no exception.

Mrs. Ole O. Ness died at her home in the village on Friday evening after a few hours' illness. Her death comes as a surprise to all as she had been in her usual health until the day of her death. She was one of the early settlers, having settled in the town of Spring Valley more than a half century ago. She is survived by one son, H. O. Ness, with whom she lived.

The boys' ball club played a picked Beloit scored a goal by a drop kick and later made another touchdown and the game ended in a 23 to 0 victory to their favor. Janesville played a very scrappy game and after the game Beloit admitted that they had to work hard for all they got. There was a very large number of people at the game, about a hundred and fifty of them being from Janesville. The line-ups for the two teams are as follows:

J. H. S.	B. H. S.
Richards	fb. Schlenker
Cronin	fb. Whitte
Kober	qb. McCarthy
McClough	lg. Christensen
Kakuska	rg. Traut
McLay	lt. Wells
Crowley	rt. Wooton
Viney	le. Mead
Mooney	le. Beimer

Subs for J. H. S.—Hunt, Ford, Kenning.

Subs for B. H. S.—Green Moss, Referee—Carter, Madison; Umpire, Simpson; Head linesman, Ed. Gharity.

First Game. The second team played their first game of the season before the other game against the second team from the Beloit high school and lost by a score of 22 to 0. The scrubs played fairly well, it being the first time they had played together, and did well to hold the score down as low as it was. Beloit's second team was very fast and heavy. They scored three touchdowns and one drop kick. Kenning made the most gains for the local eleven while Waite, Slaker and Welch did some very consistent playing. Having a second team is a very good plan to follow up as it develops some good material for next year's first team. The line-ups for the game Saturday were as follows:

J. H. S. Seconds	B. H. S. Seconds
Waite	lg. Schapel
Welch	fb. M. Garrity
Kenning	rb. Anderson
McDermott	qb. B. Gayton
Falkner	le. Snyder
Davidson	rt. Beimer
Davey	lt. Reynolds
Allen	rt. Gerald
Hunt	le. Parker
Gaggs	le. O'Brien

Subs for J. H. S. Seconds, O'Brien and Skelly.

Referee, Ed. Garrity; Umpire, Rawson; Timekeepers, Lord, Beloit; Scorekeepers, Johnson, Beloit.

in Janesville" week and everyone should take pride in the fact and do their utmost to spread the good tidings that Janesville is one of the best medium-sized manufacturing districts in the state and the best place for the retail shoppers in southern Wisconsin.

THE STREET TAX.

The taxpayers of the city apparently fail to realize that by the passage of the proposed ordinance doing away with the various ward divisions in the street improvement tax, making it either one or two districts instead of five, that three-eighths of a mill on every dollar raised for this purpose can be saved his pocketbook. Instead making the tax for this purpose one and three-eighths mills the council discovers that by lumping the sums raised they can get along and have sufficient money for all purposes by making the tax but one mill. Think of the saving in the aggregate? Stop and consider it and then realize that this is not a movement to take away any of the prerogatives of the politician, nor a political move, but a direct saving to the pocketbooks of every taxpayer in the city. Not only that, but it will permit of more and better improvements at less cost to the city and enable the street department to keep all streets in every part of the city in repair as they are needed, and not be forced to neglect this or that section because the ward fund for this purpose is exhausted. Think it over.

Both the democratic and the republican national committees are planning to meet early in December to discuss plans for the next national campaign which comes next year. Meanwhile favorite sons of the republican household are busy laying all sorts of wires for approval of various state delegations for their aspirations.

It is moved and seconded that November be politely invited to follow the example set by October. Are you ready for the question? All those in favor say "Aye," contraries "Nay." The "Ayes" have it. The motion is carried.

It is the president's wedding they will have to understand although they may arrange for any sort of a present they desire. An exchange says, "For the glory of Greece" read the "discretion that is Greece." The latter cause might be made to read with more feeling: "The discretion that is Greece." A distinction with but little difference.

Saved.

Love never dies.

And with a grin,

Dan Cupid cried:

"Fall in! Fall in!"

(Mystery No. 2.)

As Letitia Spratts was threading her way daintily among the dirt piles and haunts of the street under repairs, suddenly her way was blocked.

A gigantic stranger, of a complexion midway between orange and mauve stood in front of her. But somehow there was something about his expression, and Letitia was not afraid.

"Well?" she said, putting it in the form of a question.

He laughed loudly.

"Do you see that hole that looks like one like a well? Well, there's something down there for you. Well, will you follow me?"

The beautiful girl, by nature adventurous, nodded, and the huge stranger leaped down a hole in the street perhaps twelve feet deep. Letitia followed and he caught her safely—by one hairpin.

"This way," he said, and led her through a long, newly dug tunnel lined with tissue paper. After progressing perhaps a mile and a half into denser and denser darkness, through which permeated a smell as of wet ink, he stopped, cried "Wait!" and struck a match. Instantly Letitia perceived the trap into which she had fallen. For the flame of the match burned a pure green. Leaping with all her might and half her main at the tiny flame, she extinguished it with one stab of her powder puff. Saved!

MADE IN JANEVILLE EXHIBIT OPENS TODAY

HOME PRODUCTS SHOW IS NOW READY FOR INSPECTION BY THE PUBLIC.

NO ADMISSION CHARGE

Visitors Can See Exhibit as Many Times as Desired.—Expect a Big Success.

Janesville's home products show was thrown open to the public this afternoon. Early indications are that the present "Made in Janesville" exhibit will easily eclipse any other attraction of its nature produced under the auspices of the Janesville Manufacturers Association. There is no charge for admission, the feature being under the supervision of the Janesville Commercial club and promoted with the idea of demonstrating to Janesville people the products of their own city and manufacturing standpoint. With these ideas in view everything is free.

The greater majority of the exhibitors had their booths and products arranged this morning. Of the minor exhibitors who continued their work of preparation, the nature and features involved in the respective exhibits only served to add greater attractiveness and features of an educational nature to the show at large.

Of the firms and others who had exhibits in order at noon today were the following: Victor Porch Shade corporation, New Gas Light company, Janesville Electric company, a religious booth in charge of the Christian First Presbyterian church, under the direction of the Rev. George Edwin Pariseo; the Gazette Printing company; P. Hohenadel, Jr., company; Janesville Paper Box and Printing; Janesville Baiting Mills; A. D. Post and sons, electric shoe repairing; Nitscher Implement company; Janesville Machine company; Wisconsin Carriage company; Hanson Furniture company; Shurtz company; George S. Parker, fountain pen; J. J. Watkins, Gray, soft drinks; J. J. Watkins, cigars; Janesville Business college; Sample garage; Schoof, meats; Doty mill, feeds; and a parcel post exhibit from the Janesville Federal building under the supervision of Postmaster J. J. Cunningham.

Although today was really the opening for the big booster and refund sale arranged by the merchants, it was said that the real business for the merchants would not open up until Wednesday. It is figured that since the majority of the merchants visited the city on Saturday to do their purchasing, what they bought last week will last them for at least two or three days. A trip to town for the merchants is not necessary, they will come prepared to take advantage of the bargains and refund features advanced by the merchants who have combined to make the sale a success. Monday being the orthodox "wash day" also keeps many at home. Of those who will make the trip from nearby cities, the larger number are expected towards Friday and Saturday.

A lowering of temperature would have a tendency to help materially in the matter of sales, according to the merchants. The present weather conditions are not inclined to buy winter goods. Not until the weather changes to pre-winter conditions will they be inclined to purchase. On the other hand the latter have their winter supplies already on hand waiting for the change, which should come shortly. If business conditions are to be maintained, sales at the present time are favorable, but any more extension as they would be if different atmospheric conditions prevailed.

Despite this condition the merchants are looking toward a big week from today through Saturday. The booster and refund sale has been extensively advertised throughout the county for the past two weeks, and great influx of new as well as old customers is expected.

HALLOWE'EN PASSES WITHOUT A MISHAP

Chief Champion Thanks Younger Janesville for Being Gentle-men.

It was a quiet, safe and sane Halloween that the experienced Janesville police department had to deal with Saturday and Sunday nights. Excellent protection by the police was effective in preventing all but minor violations but in general there was no need of police work on either night. Not one arrest was made and the police officers who rode in automobiles around the city on quiet searches for gangs of vandals, had the pleasant surprise to find that there were none. Outside of a few soaped windows, one or two torn sidewalks, and the placing of a picket fence across a street, the police found nothing that would tend to indicate that it was Halloween night. In the place of vandal tricks, destruction of property, home parties, dances and social recreations were held to a much greater extent than costume parties are numerous and all were blameless and joyous.

The police department is very glad to report that young Janesville acted the part of a gentleman on Saturday and Sunday nights. It was the quietest Halloween ever in the experience of the department, and Chief Champion this morning wished it understood that he appreciated the spirit shown and hope for no trouble tonight.

A few extra officers will be on duty tonight at the service of an automobile may be secured.

ACCOMPANIES M'ADOO ON JOURNEY HERE

Postmaster Cunningham and Wife Have Delightful Visit With Secretary and Wilson's Daughter.

Postmaster J. J. Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham were in Madison on Saturday and yesterday to attend the reception in honor of Secretary of the Treasury W. G. McAdoo on Saturday evening. They were accompanied by Mrs. Cunningham's daughter, Miss Cunningham, who is a student at the university convocation and also were present at the reception held at the Madison club.

Mr. McAdoo was accompanied by his wife and daughter of President Wilson. They passed through Janesville on the return from Madison yesterday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham accompanied them to Janesville and enjoyed a pleasant visit. With Mr. and Mrs. McAdoo was Peter Newton, assistant secretary of the treasury. Other Rock county residents who were in Madison yesterday were H. C. Moehle, Clinton, Chris. Hoen, Edgerton, Andrew, Edgerton, W. L. Holmes, Milton and Gardner Kälve, Janesville.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. J. A. Miller of 715 Prairie avenue, entertained for her daughters, Deette and Helen, at a Halloween party Saturday evening. The guests were first given a hay rack ride and then returned to the house and played games. Mrs. Miller was assisted by the Misses Hazel Randall, Elsie Davis and Marguerite Brunson. The evening all came attired in different costumes.

COMMERCIAL CLUB FAVORS NEW PLAN FOR STREET FUND

Resolution Passed Endorsing Plan to Do Away With Ward Fund System.

The following resolution was passed at the meeting of the Commercial club directors today:

"Resolved, That the Commercial club go on record as favoring the city council doing away with ward funds for street improvements and the total amount raised for street purposes be used as a general fund."

The economic point in this change makes it a matter of good business and the reduction of tax from 1 1/2 mill to 1 mill each dollar of assessment interest every taxpayer in the city.

George S. Parker brought up the question of change in the present method of ward lines as against a unit system for the entire city, and pointed out the benefit to be derived to the city as a whole, a plan favored by the commissioners, and which in all probability will be worked out.

He then offered the resolution above. Mr. Markham, in the promotion, committee con contest, was present and spoke of the plans for furnishing the harvest of these Rock county boys' trip to Madison last year, and a continuation next year of the good roads movement were discussed.

The ornamental street lighting came up for discussion and it was the opinion of the club to have a definite action taken place at once. The mayor and commissioners are to be invited to be present at the meeting next Monday, after the matter further and see if the system cannot be installed immediately.

BATH HEATER GAS IS NEARLY FATAL TO J. B. DEARBORN

His Condition Discovered Just in Time to Save His Life.

Rapid thinking and action, and strenuous riding of an ax on the part of his wife and a roomer at the home of J. B. Dearborn, at 108 Cherry street, are held accountable for the saving of the life of Mr. Dearborn on Saturday evening, after he had been overcome in a bath room from the effects of gas from a patent water heater. Although more or less sick to the stomach yesterday, and today, and confined to his bed, Mr. Dearborn is out of danger.

On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Dearborn returned to their home about 10 o'clock from a trip down town. Mrs. Dearborn retired while her husband prepared to bathe. He had secured warm water from the gas heater and had finished his bath and was preparing for bed when he felt dizzy and fell to the floor. He was unable to reach the door, which had been locked. Gradually unconsciousness overcame him.

Mr. and Mrs. Dearborn returned to the home about 10:25. She heard groans coming from the bathroom and immediately called Mr. Dearborn, after finding attempts to get an answer from within unavailable and the door securely locked.

Mrs. Dearborn arose and finding similar conditions, acted quickly. Together the two ladies secured the ax and chopped down the door and found Mr. Dearborn lying motionless on the bathroom floor.

He was dragged from the room and Doctor Fiebel was immediately called. The two ladies had to wait for some time before the doctor could be reached. The fire station for the pulmotor. This was rushed to the scene on the small chemical car and arrived a few seconds after 10:30 o'clock.

Mr. Dearborn was in a dangerous condition at that time, and it was only after continued heroic efforts on the part of the physician and of the normal breathing that any sign of normal action work continued until the victim was breathing easier and the danger point passed.

Mr. Dearborn's condition was more of confinement in the bathroom with the gas gradually saturating the atmosphere and all chances of recovery for Mr. Dearborn would have passed. As it was, his condition was extremely bad when the doctor and the pulmotor arrived.

FIRST CHARGE MADE ON AUTO ORDINANCE

Monte Walrath, Farmer, Held for Driving Auto in Violation of New Ordinances.

Monte Walrath, a farmer residing six miles north of Janesville, is the first person to be arrested for the violation of the new city ordinance for the regulation of traffic and the first to be prosecuted under a city charge in some months. Saturday afternoon he was arrested by Patrolman Charles Handy, while driving an automobile on Bluff street in an alleged intoxicated condition. The police had it on the docket as being South Bluff street and Walrath declared he was driving on North Bluff street when arrested. It is a question for the court to decide who is right in the matter.

On morning a complaint was issued and a warrant sworn out by City Attorney W. H. Dougherty, charging that Walrath drove an automobile while in an intoxicated condition and without displaying their regular lights. Walrath was taken from the police station where he had spent the week end, and entered a plea of not guilty and then called an attorney. Edward H. Carpenter appeared for him and the charge of intoxication was dropped from the complaint. The case was adjourned until tomorrow morning at ten o'clock. Walrath was released to appear in court at that time.

TWO SMALL FIRES PUT OUT BY THE DEPARTMENT

Fire of an unknown origin did small damage to the residence occupied by C. P. Loomis, 327 Glen street, at three-thirty o'clock this morning, burning a rear part of the house which is used as a wood-shed. Smoke brought about the discovery of the fire. The damage done by chemicals in gutting out the blaze. Only minor damage was caused.

Saturday night the department went to the residence of William Robinson, 518 North Bluff street, near the school for the blind, where a child playing with matches set fire to a straw stack. As the firemen could not obtain water, they concentrated their efforts on protecting the house. The stack was burned to the ground.

WIFE DESERTERS ARE PLACED ON A FARM

District Attorney of Dane County Has System of Farm Working to Punish Such Class.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Nov. 1.—Harry Sauthoff, district attorney of Dane county, would establish a work farm for the employment of men who abandon their wives. The money which would come from the labors of these men on the farm would be turned over to the wife who is dependent upon the husband for support. When the Dane county board of supervisors holds its meeting next week, District Attorney Sauthoff will appear before the board and advocate this plan. He says that the work farm would mete out the punishment to the male offenders, but without expense to their wives.

Mr. Sauthoff says that similar farms have been established by other cities of the country for the punishment of men who have committed serious crimes, but perhaps not of such a nature as to justify incarceration in a penitentiary. Recently there have been so many cases of abandonment in Dane county that District Attorney Sauthoff believes the farm would have plenty of employees.

NOTORIOUS LEEVEE CAFE NOW A DANCING SCHOOL

Chicago, Nov. 1.—If there is such a thing as a ghost, there will probably be a lot of these invisible spirits on hand tonight to leer at the invasion of a one-time notorious levee cafe by Chicago's "Four Hundred." These spirits will be able tonight to mix with an assemblage they couldn't have got within a mile of were they in the flesh today. Tonight is the opening of what is expected to be the most exclusive dancing school in the city for the city's elite. The school will meet in the hall at Wabash avenue and Seventh street. Five years ago Sam Horn's Olympic cafe was housed there and it was a motley crowd of painted ladies, underworld habitués and touts who gathered there nightly in those good old days.

"BIRTH OF A NATION" MARVELOUS SPECTACLE

Immense Audiences at Myers
Theatre Yesterday.

"The Birth of a Nation," D. W. Griffith's massive and magnificent spectacle made its initial appearance in Janesville at Myers Theatre yesterday afternoon and evening and played to packed houses at both performances.

The first thing that impressed the huge audience was the wholly delightful and inspiring musical effects rendered by a score of musicians.

It takes over three hours to show this picture which in most vivid throughout and which shows a great nation in the throes of a civil war, the Ku Klux Klan in their efforts to rid the burdened south of the carpet-bagger's effect on the emancipated negro. Throughout the entire piece there is a double romance. And finally when peace has been declared the message, Liberty and Union, one and inseparable, is flashed on the screen.

The wonderful films show all the hardships wrought by war in the southern homes, the estrangement of lovers, the breaking up of families, the want and poverty and hardship, the emotions caused by the summoning to the colors. Following in rapid succession one is taken to the negro quarters in the southern plantations where the old-time darkeys sing and dance after their day's work of picking cotton is over. Then one is suddenly switched to a great battlefield where two mighty armies are locked in mortal combat. Cavalry duels, infantry fire, artillery engagements, hand-to-hand encounters are depicted by the films and are most realistic.

Here on a broad valley are seen thousands and thousands of men and horses and all the horrors of war are faithfully carried out.

A large number of scenes of unusual historical interest are pictured. The battle of Gettysburg, the siege of Petersburg, Sherman's march to the sea, the fall of Atlanta, interesting events in Washington. General Lee's famous "choking hands" with U. S. Grant after his surrender. One is impressed by the accurate detail and reproductions of Ford's Theatre and the assassination of Lincoln by John Wilkes Booth.

In the last part of the play the scenes reveal the trials of the southerners in dealing with the negroes who have joined forces with the unscrupulous carpetbaggers, who aim to control elections and to loot public treasures. Demoralization is pictured with the reconstruction through the agency of the Ku Klux Klan, a secret organization of men. These riders, clad in fantastic costumes, their faces concealed by hoods of ghastly white and white coverings for their horses, descend upon the negroes in a body and disperse them, and make them slaves.

Musical lovers were much pleased with the presentation as they would be over a production of grand opera, as its score of martial music, patriotic airs and folk songs were played by a symphony orchestra especially carried and trained for this purpose and which greatly enhanced the emotional power of this splendid film.

"The Birth of a Nation" is an American picture of wonderful effect and should be witnessed by every American.

WOUNDED SOLDIER TELLS OF CHARGE ON GERMANS

London, Nov. 1.—(By Mail.)—"It was all right once the curtain was rung up," said a wounded Tommy, formerly a call-boy in a London theatre. "It was the slightest wait for the order to advance that I found most trying. The incessant thunder of the guns and the shrieking of the shells in the darkness overhead was a most nerve-racking overture to the big drama to come."

"It was my first real battle. I knew my part well enough after months of rehearsals in England, but I own I felt a trifle shaky, just like an actor on his first night. But it's strange how all this feeling passed away when someone cried, 'Up lads, now's your chance.'"

"My chum and I had agreed to stick together as long as we could, but no sooner did we clamber out of the trench than he went down. I seemed to go mad with rage at this. I hardly knew what I did."

"Suddenly I lost all fear. I was carried along by an overwhelming impulse to get at the Germans and avenge my chum. Leveling my bayonet I rushed headlong, jumping over dead bodies and barbed wire as though I was electrified. I was bowled over at the first trench. I remember plunging my bayonet into a huge German who confronted me with leveled rifle. Then I was hit on the head with something that made me see more fire than during all the time I had been out there."

"Next thing I knew the stretcher-bearer was telling me my wound was not very serious."

YOUNGEST STUDENT AT UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN ONLY FOURTEEN YEARS OLD

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Nov. 1.—The youngest student at the University is only 14 years of age. He is Frank Ross, the oldest son of Prof. N. A. Ross of the department of sociology of the university. Ross received his early preparatory training at home as a pupil of his mother, instead of going to school as the other children. This instruction lasted three hours a day, the remainder of the time he was allowed to play with the other boys of the neighborhood and engage in outdoor sports. He spent one year in the graded school and entered the university last fall.

"We want him to have a liberal education before he thinks of specializing," continued Prof. Ross. "He is too young to think of specializing in any particular line."

The Eccentric Sam Bernard Tonight. Sam Bernard, the irrepressible king of comedy, whom the Famous Players Film Company induced to present his unequalled mirth-provoking talents on the screen, makes his first appearance before the motion picture public in a film travesty, entitled "Poor Schmaltz," at the Apollo tonight.

This picture presents Sam Bernard in the hilarious role of a German war-monger who becomes the principal agent in a series of exorbitantly comic adventures. A Count with an archaic tendencies, a dangerous and fascinating woman, known as the "Queen of the Reds," a formidable policeman, a genuine bomb, misunderstandings a-plenty, and an American to marry a titled person, and who nearly wed her to Schmaltz, provide the humor of the feature. Of course, Sam Bernard has his funny and famous barber-shop scenes and his mock duel, which are two of the most laughable incidents ever seen in a screen comedy.

Sam Bernard's debut on the screen in "Poor Schmaltz" will be literally a "howling" success. This unusual Famous Players fun-film is a permanent injunction against the blues, and throughout its entire length is guaranteed to create more laughs than any other three comedies ever produced in motion pictures.

Francis X. Bushman Coming in "Graustark."

This great six reel photoplay, dramatized from the novel of George Barr McCutcheon, is one that has brought out the enthusiasm of every spectator who has viewed it. Exhibitors declare that never have they had a photoplay that has brought such universal approval, nor one that has created such universal comment.

Theatres have been thronged night after night with crowds, who left declaring it was the best photoplay they had ever seen. Repeated calls for re-bookings have been made.

Critics on newspapers and magazines everywhere have joined in praising this play. They have lauded it for its excellent production, its scenic beauty, its dramatic and thrilling action, the exceptional acting of Bushman players, and for its intense plot that holds all spectators spell-bound.

And "Graustark" is a play that finds a sympathetic chord in every heart. It is the story of a love behind a throne. There is no man nor woman not interested in a love scene. When it becomes the love of conquest of a young American for a princess, it attains a romanticism that is overwhelming in interest. It is no ordinary love, but a love of a man who is willing to sacrifice all his life, for the woman to whom he has given his heart. This is what raises "Graustark" from an ordinary play and places it in the class of one of the world's greatest dramas.

The Illustrious Star Emily Stevens
Appears in Picturized Version of "Cora."

Myers picture fans were shown an exceptionally good picture at Myers Theatre Saturday afternoon and evening. Miss Emily Stevens, the scintillating stage star was featured in a story of the world of make-believe. The story deals with a prima donna who goes the wrong road but is redeemed through love. The act was strong and the pictures clear. It was a mighty good picture.

NEW CLOSING LAW SUBJECT OF DISPUTE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 1.—Although the state law which requires delicatessen stores to close on the Sabbath goes into effect today, it will not be felt by consumers until next Sunday. The law has aroused more protest in Milwaukee than any measure which has been enacted by the legislature in many years. Delicatessen owners have held mass meetings to discuss plans to have the measure repealed, but have been unsuccessful.

Some of the dealers have declared they will observe their "Sundays" Friday. They state that little meat is sold on Friday anyway and they would be better off to close down on that day and keep open on Sundays.

Another angle which has arisen over antagonism to the law is the declaration of District Attorney Zabel that if it is insisted that he close delicatessen stores on Sunday, he will enforce the law.

The Heart of Night Wind

A Story of the Great Northwest

By VINGIE E. ROE

Illustrations by Ray, Walters

At supper time Sletzt, moving between the tables, laughed to herself, softly, and her dark eyes under the little shadow of her parted hair held a sparkling gleam as if she had seen that conflict and enjoyed it.

"Sletzt," said the owner, coming in suddenly from the east porch after the men had tramped heavily away to the bunkhouse, "whom do you know outside this camp?"

She was alone in the big spotless kitchen, her sleeves rolled up from her arms, slim and brown with a smooth color that was of the sun's giving.

"Outside the camp?" she asked, turning to him for a moment, stopped in some task of the aftermath of the meal, "why—nobody."

"Don't you ever go down to Toledo?" Sandry was leaning in the doorway, his bright blue eyes upon her.

"Sometimes."

"Have you no friends there? No girl friends?"

She shook her head and he noticed the clean profile, the shape of the small pointed chin, the good forehead conflicting with a vague suggestion of fleeting wild things in the velvety eyes.

"Is there no one with whom you associate outside the camp? Think."

Suddenly there passed over her features a quick change. He could liken it to nothing but a wind on the surface of water, just a breath of change.

"Only the Preacher," she said with a swift slurring of softness in her voice.

"The Preacher?"

"You don't know him. He only comes sometimes. He was here just before you came."

"Who is he?" asked Sandry curiously.

"I don't know. Nobody knows. But I love him."

"The Preacher," he said to himself a little later in the bare south room under the dripping eaves. "H'm! The Bible—of course."

With a new interest he picked up the quaint old book of Holy Writ and let it fall open in his hands as it had a way of doing.

Out from that marvelous song of an inspired soul, the Psalms, there looked his answer, as he was to know in another day, the truest answer that could have been given to his question:

"Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? Or who shall stand in his holy place? He that hath clean hands and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully."

With an odd feeling of truth struck from the page he closed the book and laid it gently down on the white cloth.

CHAPTER VII.

Night Wind.

From that time forth Sandry began to take a keener interest in Sletzt. For one thing, he noticed that everyone called her Sletzt, with a soft slurring of the first syllable, and he found himself using the name which he thought particularly beautiful. It was the name of the reservation to the north and of a small part of the odds and ends of tribes thrown in there by a beneficent government. What was her other name? He had always thought of her as Ma Dally's daughter; and yet, now that he came to think of it, she had never seemed akin to the easy-going, open-minded foreman who was so like the old woman. She was alien to both with her silences, her whimsical speech and her look of hidden fire.

One day in the late fall, when the white mist and the evergreen of the forest had got on his nerves unbearably, Sandry left the office and went to the shed for Black Bolt, only to find him gone. He had meant to ride off the 6th of blues. Failing that, he decided to walk it off, and struck up the wet green valley to the north.

Almost immediately the tumbling hills closed in upon him and he found himself in a wilderness of towering firs, of dripping vine maples and mysterious paths lost in the crowding ferns. He was standing at rest in a small glade carpeted with pine needles and surrounded with ferns, when he caught the sound of voices. They came from the dense wall of the woods at his right and unconsciously he listened, tipping his head and straining his ears. Presently a look of blankness spread upon his face.

One of the voices was familiar, soft and sliding with minors, the voice of the girl Sletzt, and she was speaking jargon.

Even as this amazing knowledge was borne in upon him the tangle parted and she stepped out before him. A Sletzt squaw followed her, a short brown creature of comely features, clad in brilliant flannel, a towering pyramid of baskets slung to one shoulder. Nosing eagerly at the girl's elbow stepped Black Bolt, while Coosnah brought up the rear. They perceived him instantly and the Indian woman turned away with a few gutturals which Sletzt answered gently. But in the moment that she had confronted him, Sandry had seen her face and received a shock.

Beginning just under the lower lip and running downward to the base of the chin there stood out three blue bars, each composed of minutely tattooed designs. Unconsciously his startled eyes flew to the dark face of the girl. There, on her lighter skin, tell-side this camp?

She was alone in the big spotless kitchen, her sleeves rolled up from her arms, slim and brown with a smooth color that was of the sun's giving.

"Outside the camp?" she asked, turning to him for a moment, stopped in some task of the aftermath of the meal, "why—nobody."

for Sletzt used her face and it was glorified. The intoxication had drifted away from her features, leaving them bare in the utter simplicity of the primeval woman, and there was in them a white fire of self-surrender.

Without a word—and Sandry knew instinctively that she could not speak—she turned to Black Bolt, threw the reins over his head, crouched beside him on a little lift of moss and leaped upward. He watched her land on the horse's blanket back with that imitable grace of the wild, turn and ride swiftly down one of the mysterious paths whose huddling ferns closed after her. Coosnah, following with a lithe rolling of all his huge muscles, cast a lowering glance backward at the man.

The incident had taken all the helplessness out of the day and the wilderness, and Sandry wended his way slowly back to camp, arriving just in time for supper. Sletzt tended the table in her usual silence, but when she reached him she was constrainedly aloof, as if fearing to break a spell by a word or touch. Once he looked up at her, striving for recognition, but she avoided his eyes and to save his life he could not repress the wild thrill that had betrayed him in the hills, though he was conscious of anger flush, not upon it. He suffered a very real humiliation in that he had so far forgotten his training, his sense of the fitness of things, as to kiss this wild mountain creature. His ancestral blood rose up in condemnation.

The next few days were crowded full to overflowing with work and he laid aside all personal perplexities. The first raft of logs, a great cigar-shaped monster, laced together in all its length and breadth with giant chains, lay in the backwater at Toledo ready for its voyage into the world beyond.

A crew of river drivers was picked from among the men and all was in readiness save for a draft of directions which was to be given, along with the raft, into the custody of Captain Graftz of the long dun-colored steamer that would stand in across the bar at Newport on the twenty-sixth.

Sandry thrilled with contemplation of the great, reddish-brown floor, slightly raised in the center, sloping gently to the sides. Its building had been a thing of wonder to him. It would in all probability scatter to the ends of the earth, and its worth ran well into five figures. He watched its departure, an impressive matter of sluggish rising with the tide, of almost imperceptible motion and then of majestic speed that carried it westward toward the ocean. Then he turned back to his logging camp with a heightened joy in the new life.

That night he wrote to the white-haired gentleman who was then going to bed under silken covers with the aid of the faithful Higgins; and his letter was long and brilliant, touched with that cheer and hope, that light of awakening strength and ability which was beginning to stir his heart to its foundation.

"Ah!" said Mr. Wilton Sandry when he got that letter, looking down on the pageant of Riverside drive in its winter livery, "what a boy he is! What a son! The metal is beginning to ring."

CHAPTER VIII.

A Newcomer Among the Pines.

One day soon after the men returned with word of the raft's safe delivery into the hands of Captain Graftz, Sandry, working over his books in the little office, heard a strange voice without.

"Oh, no," it was saying in fresh, sweet accents—and the very tone said East—"You need not wait. I am going to stay. If this is the office, or headquarters of this place, I'll find whoever is in charge. Just put my trunk on that pile of timber. Be careful! Oh, do be careful! That case contains my typewriter, and it's more precious than gold! There—that's right. Now, what do I owe you?"

There was an answer and the clink of money, and Sandry rose just as the office door opened. It was the East that confronted him. Fifth avenue itself, the whole inimitable metropolis refined into one woman. The mist of the West was thick upon her silver furs; it hung in diamond drops on the waving white cigarette that stood out from her small dark velvet turban in airy pride; its cool freshness bloomed in her cheeks. She smiled, and a cosmopolitan goodfellowship radiated from her frankly.

"I must beg a thousand pardons," she said, her clear blue eyes raised to his face, "and a lot of indulgence. I want to be taken in. Do you think any one in this delightful place will do it?"

"The whole camp will fight for the privilege," promised Sandry rashly, falling in instantly with her bantering tone and responding to the frankness of her smile. He watched her sit down gracefully in the chair that he hurriedly pulled forward. With the first glimpse of her the old nostalgia had returned upon him and his heart clamored for home.

"You are from New York," he said simply.

"Yes. And I suppose I must explain at once. You westerners are so insistent on reasons. My name is Poppy Ordway—and I am of that unfortunate and much criticized species, the woman with a life worth."

The smile she turned upon him was electric, full of that heady quality which is distinctive of the vital woman, the woman of strong and excitable passions; it appealed to Sandry instantly, so that a thrill of gladness ran through him to his very finger tips.

"I have written a few short stories which have been well received in the eastern magazines, but they fail to satisfy me. I have my first novel drafted, and it is over there on your lumber pile—along with my precious typewriter. It is a tale of the lumber region—and I've come out to work on the ground. Do you think I can find sanctuary?"

"We'll see that you do," said Sandry pleasantly, "and you couldn't have struck a better spot for local color any where in the Northwest. We are elemental here, right down to the primitive, and we are swamped with 'atmosphere.' You just come along to Ma Dally," he promised, already using the tone of half-fellow which their common nativity and her frank manner had established between them.

Hungry he watched her gather up her skirts and precede him up the little path to the cook-shack, where Ma Dally was already standing in the door to take inventory. Every little movement was so familiar, so potent in its suggestion of home.

Chatting lightly, the stranger stepped up on the porch and smiled at the white-haired old woman.

"Ma Dally," said Sandry—he had long since lost the sense of resentment at the family atmosphere of the camp—"this is Miss Ordway of New York—a famous author—and she has come West to write a new book. Luckily she struck us in her search for local color. Can we take her in?"

Ma Dally looked at the visitor sharply and Sandry saw a scarce perceptible change pass over her cheery features. The vital blue eyes of the younger woman gave back the scrutiny with perfect openness.

"Please do, Mrs. Dally," she said in her sweet voice. "Please, please do." "Don't know," said Ma slowly; "there ain't any room."

"I'll abdicate," put in Sandry quickly; "she may have my room and I'll put up a cot in the office."

Just at that moment Sletzt came in at the west door and, crossing the big room, stood looking up upon the group on the porch. Her dark eyes rested first with a fleeting glance on Sandry and then she saw the other.

WEAK, AILING CHILD

Made Strong By Delicious Vinol. Lakeport, N. H.—"Our little girl 3 years of age was in a debilitated, run-down condition and had a stubborn cough so she was weak and ailing all the time. Nothing helped her until we tried Vinol. Then her appetite increased and she is strong and well, and I wish other parents of weak, delicate children would try Vinol."—Geo. A. Collins.

This is because Vinol contains the tissue building, strengthening cod liver elements and the tonic iron which a weak and run-down system needs. Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis.

HEAL YOUR SKIN WITH RESINOL

It Stops Itching Instantly, and Clears Away Unpleasant Eruptions.

If your skin itches and burns with eczema or any such tormenting, unsightly skin disease, simply wash the sore places with Resinol Soap and hot water, dry, and apply a little Resinol Ointment. The itching stops INSTANTLY, you no longer have to dig and scratch, sleep becomes possible, and healing begins at once. That is because the soothing, antiseptic Resinol medication strikes right into the surface, arrests the action of the disease, and almost always restores the tortured, inflamed skin to perfect health—quickly, easily and at little cost.

Prescribed by doctors for twenty years, and sold by every druggist.

A GOOD WAY TO SHAMPOO Shampoo with Resinol Soap, rubbing its lather thoroughly into the scalp, so as to work in the soothing, healing Resinol medication. This almost always stops dandruff and scalp itching, and keeps the hair live, thick and lustrous.

Dinner Stories

A very fat man applied for enlistment in the army. The recruiting sergeant looked at him and shook his head, saying: "Can't be done, old son; you're too stout."

Terrible Croup Attack Quickly Repelled By Old Reliable Remedy

Well known Georgia store keeper has mastered croup and colds for his family of ten with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound.

The minute that hoarse terrifying group cough is heard in the home of T. J. Barber, of Jefferson, Ga., comes Foley's Honey and Tar Compound—there's always a bottle ready. Here's what he says: "Two of my children, one boy and a girl, aged eight and six years respectively, had terrible attacks of croup last winter and I completely cured them with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. I have ten in family and for years I've used Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and it never fails."

"Well, what are you suffragette going to do?" inquired the father.

"We are going to sweep the count."

try," she replied proudly. "Well, do not despise small beginnings, my dear. Suppose you start with the dining room."

"I was rumbling along in a street car the other day when a batch of young fellows got aboard," says a ranchman, who is visiting in the east. "I judged they were college students by their funny clothes and queer-shaped heads. The car was pretty full, and they pushed and shunted on people's feet and committing similar frivolities that way. Bimby they all paled back and fetched loose a long yell. Then the nearest one to

"Shore, I like it!" says I. "I'm half-witted myself!"

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE!

People Notice It. Drive Them Off With Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cured with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

LET THE COAL PILE PAY FOR THIS STOVE

You will save from $10 to $20 this year on fuel bill alone with the

Favorite Base Burner
For Winter Comfort Burns least fuel—

Not counting the absence of repair expense and of disease and drudgery caused by the dust, dirt, soot and coal gases that a common stove pours into rooms to soil and wear carpets, curtains, furniture and undermine health.

For less money than you have ever spent for fuel you can make your own climate in your home all winter long with the Favorite, which costs no more than inferior stoves that burn twice as much coal.

No matter what kind of heating stove you buy this fall, get a guarantee of fuel economy from the dealer. You can get one from us with the Favorite.

Buy one—place it in your home. If it does not do everything we claim for it—if it does not save at least two tons of coal every winter it is in use, giving you a warmer, healthier home than you have ever before enjoyed—we will make it good to your satisfaction. STRUCK BY AN AUTO; GIRL IS BADLY HURT

Edgerton Young Woman Suffers Fractured Jaw in Unfortunate Accident on Saturday.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Edgerton, Nov. 1.—While on the way to the football game at the Edgerton park, Saturday afternoon, Miss Edgerton, a high school student from Edgerton, stepped out of the way of an automobile that was approaching in front of a machine that was being driven by T. Christensen of Edgerton. The heavy car threw Miss Edgerton to the ground and the front wheel of the machine passed over her head, fracturing her jaw and dislocating it at the same time. She was immediately rushed to the office of Dr. Shearer, where her injuries were attended to, after which she was taken to a hospital. It was a very unfortunate accident and no one was really responsible. Miss Edgerton is reported as doing as well as could be expected today.

Defeat Stoughton Team.

Stoughton football team met a defeat at the hands of the local high school in Saturday's game by a score of 14 to 2. The Stoughton team came down with a special train, three hundred strong, besides a great number of auto parties that attended the game, and about six hundred tickets were sold. Both teams did a great deal of fumbling but the team work of the home boys was exceptionally good. In tackling one of the Edgerton men Willie Olson of Stoughton had the misfortune to have his collar bone fractured, and Joe Hoverson also sustained a fracture of the arm in a similar manner. It was at first thought the ankle was fractured, but an X-ray picture was taken and showed that no bones were broken. The game was a very close football, but the Stoughton boys were not in trim to meet the attack of the local boys. The next game will be played with Walworth here and after the victory the boys should draw a large crowd.

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a glass of Salts to flush Kidneys if Bladder bothers you—Drink lots of water.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

RHEIMS ARCHBISHOP STARTS A CAMPAIGN OVER RACE SUICIDE

Points Importance of Situation as Being Dangerous to the Future of France.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Paris, Nov. 1.—Cardinal Luçon, Archbishop of Rheims, whose seventy-two years do not prevent him from sticking to his chest-battered point of view, has found time to continue his campaign against the depopulation of France, a subject upon which he is a recognized authority. He has written for the Associated Press views on the effect of war upon the birth rate that are particularly interesting in view of the revival of religious interest shown by increased attendance at all religious services throughout France.

"The origin of the question," he writes, "is obviously in childless marriages. Find out where marriages are childless and we may find out where the remedy lies. Economists have pointed out, however, that the effect of alcohol, selfishness and avarice as some of the causes; they have accordingly proposed as remedies the suppression of vice, conscription of literature, prohibition of alcohol, public aid to large families with relief from military duties, ensured employment, lighter taxes on fathers and heavier burdens on bachelors and childless married men.

"All these methods are good as far as they go; all should be tried since every man who loves his country cannot be indifferent to the growth of a real vice, amounting to a social disease, which imperils not only the prosperity but the existence of a nation.

The Killing of War.

"The war will accentuate the campaign against depopulation by compelling attention to the mowing down so many men in the flower of their age, the suppression of so many sources of life. It will no doubt hasten the adoption of some if not all the measures proposed, but economic methods do not take a man's soul into account; so long as the conscience is untouched, so long will economic measures be fruitless.

"Religion reaches, governs and modifies the intimate thoughts that govern man's actions; inspires him to a duty that is imposed by the most indisputable authority—that of his Creator. It also assures to duty done a reward that infinitely surpasses in value and duration the fleeting troubles and sacrifices imposed by duty.

Under the influence of religious obedience to the laws of the married state become spontaneous and generous through the most powerful personal interests that it encourages. To those that close the sources of life in order to escape fatigue and trouble or to avoid the division of inheritances and assure to their heirs lives of pleasure without work, religion recalls that the conjugal state was not instituted by the author of nature for the satisfaction of the senses, or for the personal enjoyment of two persons—that man here below has other interests than that of personal satisfaction; other riches than those of the earth.

"To everyone religion shows the nobility of fatherhood which associates them with the creative power of God; it shows them that by contributing to the giving of life to his children whose souls are immortal and whom God destined to eternal happiness.

Religious Beliefs.

"Let us then rehabilitate—renew—these religious beliefs, which will be reborn Christian ways and with Christian ways will again come the observance, through conviction and through love, of the holy laws of marriage and of the family, and in a large proportion, the rebuilding of the home.

"I do not pretend that religion may, of itself, cure the evil. I merely point out that therein is found for Christians the most powerful auxiliary against the evil—the most efficacious encouragement to the duty which we seek to stimulate.

"We must not forget that the task of married people is grave and arduous; the duty they perform, which above all among the classes that depend on their daily work for their daily bread, I have labored among such for twenty years and have often received the confidence of honest fathers of families who with only their modest daily earnings to live upon, asked themselves whether they should risk having more children that they could feed. Religious convictions were the only ones that could encourage and give support to such fathers; their reliance was confidence in providence.

Aid is Needed.

"Providence makes use of secondary causes. It is the honor and duty of those who possess power and fortunes to become its instruments. To the moral force of religion material aid must be added. Legislators, employers—all those who are favored by wealth must apply their good will to lighten the burdens of fathers of large families, help them procure the needed resources to do honor to and protect the family and make the way easy for the education of their children.

"I do not believe in radical measures that would take from every healthy man without children his rights of citizenship; that seems to be contrary to the liberty of conscience and dignity of man."

MORRIS MILLER

Whether or not Cleveland has a first division team in 1916 depends largely upon the committee of bankers which has C. W. Somers' financial affairs in charge. As it stands now, the Indians are not first division possibilities. Strengthen a few spots, however, and you might have a club which would emulate the Phillies or Braves, and land one-two-three with a rush. To fill those weak spots, money is necessary, and sufficient money to go in this manner.

Players is something that Somers does not possess unless the bankers' committee loosens up and recognizing the fact that the Indians cannot be made a paying proposition until they are strengthened, allows him to make a few investments in players.

No big eastern college has experimented more with the passes than Yale, yet it was a total lack of a defense against the aerial attacks that caused Eli to lose to Washington and Jefferson. Twenty-four passes were attempted by W. and twenty-two of them were successful, a one-sided proportion that no team has a right to expect and could not cash in upon were the opposition possessed of a defense that had any brains attached. Perhaps the players themselves should not be blamed. Perhaps the blame should split fifty-fifty.

Ever since the baseball season came to an end the Federal league press agents, including James Gilmore, have regaled the public with stories that while organized baseball lost some money this year because of the poor class of ball exhibited, four of the Federal teams came through with the balance upon the right side of the ledger, the four being Chicago, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Kansas City. Particular stress was given the announcement that St. Louis team made big money. It read very well and organized baseball made no denial of the claims. The denial, however, came recently, but right from the outlaw camp itself, the president of the Kansas City club, informing the stockholders that Kansas City had dropped $35,000. Now, the public may ask if the profits made by Chicago, Pittsburgh and St. Louis were of the same character. Or, perhaps, it is that Gilmore really considers that the $35,000 loss was really a gain, the same club having lost $50,000 in 1914.

The greatest ambition of Grover Alexander's life is to pitch a no-hit game. Six times he has seemed about to realize it, yet every time some one batter has ruined his chance. The closest he ever came was on May 5 of this year, but the batter of the Cardinals singled with two out in the ninth. On June 6 "Buck" Wheat of the Dodgers ruined the no-hit prospects with a single in the seventh. Fred Merkle of the Giants singled in the seventh of Alexander on July 5, the only hit made by his team on that day. It was Sherwood

Mayer, one time teammate of Alexander, who shattered Alexander's dream of a no-hit game on September 28 in Boston.

Merchandise Can Be Bought For Less In Janesville Than Ever Before.

We believe in Live and Let LIVE. Therefore all our goods are marked at a fair per cent of profit.

To demonstrate this we might say that our Dry Goods and Women's Ready-to-Wear Department was only opened last March, the 17th, a little over six months ago. Since then you who have made fair comparison of prices, cannot fail to notice the big drop in prices. And regardless of the fact that goods are going higher every day, we fearlessly make this statement that we are selling reliable merchandise today for less than you could possibly buy in Janesville one year ago.

Shopping By Mail

If you can't come to the store in person, send in your order by mail or phone. We maintain a modern mail order department. Goods are sent out the same day order is received and we pay express or Parcel Post anywhere.

Our Stock Will Always Be Found New and Fresh

as we buy only in such quantities for Spot Cash that we can dispose of same.

By this up-to-date method our stock does not accumulate and become shop worn. Then we are always in a position to buy new merchandise and offer the very latest novelties at all times.

While this store is comparatively new, we can safely say that the majority of people are looking to this store for novelties, such that can only be found in the larger cities.

Courteous Service

Every clerk and salesperson in this store is a courteous lady or gentleman. We realize that courtesy is one of the little things in any business but which many business houses neglect. Courtesy is paramount here.
